

Together We Can

Pakistan Humanitarian Alliance (PHA)

PHA is lead by
Human Resource Development
Network (HRDN)

Introduction

Pakistan is prone to diverse natural and man-made disasters. Alarmingly, these disasters are increasing due to climate change and environmental degradation, scarcity and abundance of water resources, unplanned growth of cities and conflicts. In the past five years the country has seen four major disasters; Pakistan earthquake 2005; Balochistan Earthquake 2008; IDPs Crisis 2009; and Monsoon Floods 2010. The coordinated efforts of humanitarian response started with the devastating earthquake 2005 and now the Pakistani humanitarian community and Government of Pakistan have set up structures and mechanisms to respond to the emergencies but still the response and preparedness needs to be strengthened and capitalized through joint and collaborative efforts of humanitarian actors.

Pakistan Humanitarian Alliance (PHA) is a coordination body of eleven civil society organizations to respond to such disasters in Pakistan. The member organizations have been actively involved and instrumental in various disasters including 2005 earthquake. The Alliance members have vast experience of working in emergencies and through their member organizations has access to all geographical locations of Pakistan.
